Campus Health Care Services (CHCS) is designed to provide limited services for acute illnesses, treatments and medications during regular hours of operation for currently enrolled students. Students should come in, check in at desk and be seated until called. Appointments are encouraged but walk-ins are welcome. On the first visit all students will receive a copy of the current HIPAA policy and will need to sign a statement of receipt of the HIPAA policy. Students need to submit student ID card and Insurance card to be copied and placed on student's chart.

Services provided include administration of MMR, Tetanus, Hepatitis B immunizations and PPD test, evaluation and treatment of illnesses, and, if necessary, referrals to off-campus resources for chronic medical problems or for problems outside the staff's scope of practice.

Campus Health Care Services is currently staffed by a part time Family Nurse Practitioner, one part time Registered Nurse, and one Administrative Assistant, all supported by underwritten protocols of a physician consultant. A physician is on site ½ day per week for visits and consultations if necessary by appointment. Campus Health reserves the right to limit or change services offered to students as resources and budgetary changes dictate.

In the event of a serious illness or accident when the clinic is closed, the student should report to the nearest Urgent Care Facility or Emergency room for immediate treatment. The student must contact CHCS within 48 hours to obtain an Emergency Referral, which can defray the costs of off campus treatment. The Mercer Police must be notified of any injury occurring on campus. They may be reached at 678-547-6358 or by using a Mercer phone and dialing 6911. Someone should stay with the injured person until the Mercer Police arrive.

Office visits are free to currently enrolled students. There is a minimal charge for prescription drugs, immunizations, TB tests and laboratory fees. It is the responsibility of the student to pay fees at the time services are rendered.

All students are required to complete a Health Information Form to be turned in with proof of required immunizations and proof of current Health Care Insurance.

All students living in campus housing will be required to show proof of the Meningitis vaccine or return a signed Meningococcal Disease Information Acknowledgment form. This is required by Georgia law.

All students enrolling in Mercer must show proof of a current PPD* within the last year. This is a screening for Tuberculosis. The student must also show proof of 2 MMR vaccines showing the month and year of both or provide documentation of blood titers showing proof of immunity. If born prior to 1957 proof of MMR is not necessary. All students may fax in proof of immunizations and insurance to (678) 547-6054.

All Nursing students are required to show proof of a PPD* within the last year, 2 MMR's or documentation of blood titers for the MMR, date of last polio, last DPT/Tetanus, Chicken Pox vaccine or year of disease, and must have started the Hepatitis B series or provide dates of Hepatitis B series and/or documentation of titer results.

All Pharmacy students are required to show proof of a PPD* within the last year, 2 MMR's or documentation of blood titers for the MMR, date of last tetanus and must have started the Hepatitis B series or provide dates of Hepatitis B series or provide Hepatitis B titer results.

The Library is also equipped for wireless computer technology. Mercer students with 802.11b compatible wireless devices may complete a wireless network form either from Technical Support Services or the Reference Desk. The Library's website [swilley.mercer.edu] is designed with pages specifically for each college/school on campus and the classes taught in those. All basic research needs for students who study on the Atlanta campus are approached via these individual pages. This should be one of every student's first places to begin his/her research.

Thanks in part to participation in the statewide consortium, GALILEO; the Library offers access to over 125 electronic databases for student research. Most of these databases plus the computerized catalog of the library's books and current journals are searchable from home or office as well. Check with a reference librarian for proper modem parameters and passwords.

The Swilley Library belongs to several local consortia. Most prominent is the Atlanta Council for Higher Education (ARCHE). This organization gives members access to library services at several Atlanta university libraries. Please consult the reference librarians concerning information regarding these or other Swilley Library services. The Library also belongs to the Atlanta Health Sciences Consortium, the North Georgia Associated Libraries Group, Georgia Interactive Network (GalN), and the American Theological Library Association.

Computer Labs. Mercer University's Cecil B. Day Campus has an open access computer laboratory for use by students. The University has equipped this lab with networked PC's running Microsoft Windows applications consisting of WordPerfect, and Microsoft Office 2007 Professional Suite. A Windows based terminal emulator makes it possible to access the University's minicomputers and the Library's on-line catalog from any laboratory PC. The Department of Learning Technology Center provides FREE training on all of these applications. A schedule is available at their website www.mercer.edu/itc .

Electronic Mail. All students have access to electronic mail accounts. These accounts support communication between students, faculty and staff. Students can also communicate with anyone on the Internet through electronic mail. Students enrolled at Mercer University are expected to use their assigned Mercer email account for official university correspondence.

Educational Use of Information Technology. Mercer's Cecil B. Day Campus is very aggressive in applying technology to education. The Department of Technology Support Services with the support of the Learning Technology Center has established an On-line instructional system called BlackBoard that allows faculty to develop courses and deploy them to students using the World Wide Web. (You can visit Mercer's World Wide Web home page at <http://www.mercer.edu> or E-mail webmaster@mercer.edu for more information.)

Help desk support. Technology Support Services currently provides access to support personnel who may be contacted in person, by telephone, or by e-mail. Most calls to the "help desk" require the dispatch of a member of the technical staff. The support staff makes every effort to respond to all calls within 24 hours. We provide student support on configuration - setup for network access, wireless network access registration, troubleshooting and basic assistance for system problems. You can contact the Helpdesk by calling 678-547-6310 or after hours by contacting 678-547-8989. You may email us at support@mercer.edu.

Wireless network access. All computers must be registered to access the University's wireless network. Stop by Technology Support Services, or the Swilley Library to register your wireless devices.

Virus protection. Landesk AntiVirus is provided for all Mercer-owned computer systems. All student systems are required to have a antivirus product installed and up to date. Resident students will be provided with AntiVirus software as part of the Clean Access Installation. Non-resident students can download a free version of AVG using the link provided below. http://avast.com/eng/free_software.html Please contact us if you need assistance with your antivirus utility.

Connecting to BearNet

Each student will have direct access to the services on BearNet: e-mail; library information systems; central computers; and high-speed access to the Internet. Wireless access to BearNet is available in all libraries, the University Center, 24-hour study rooms, and a number of other facilities on the Macon and Atlanta campuses.

If you wish to access the University's wireless network, you will need a system equipped with either Intel Centrino wireless or a Linksys or Cisco 802.11b or 802.11g wireless access card. Do not purchase wireless access cards with "speed boost" technology. Many systems now come standard with built-in wireless adapters; check your system specs to determine whether or not a wireless access card is required for your system.

We suggest that, if possible, you arrive on campus with your computer fully equipped and ready to go. If, however, you need assistance, please contact Technology Support Services at 678-547-8989.

The University has set up purchasing arrangements with Gateway and Dell to allow students to purchase computer systems at discounted prices. You can access these sites by connecting to the Technology Support Services web site: <http://mercer.edu/tss>; click on Computer Purchases and then Personal Purchases.
